The Department's Educational Philosophy

Proficiency in English is an essential component of education in the United States. An ability to understand and communicate in English is fundamental to the preservation of our democratic system and to the well being of its citizens.

Guiding Principles

An essential component of education and the learning process is the development of proficiency in the arts of language. The ability to articulate and respond to complex ideas is a requirement of participatory citizenship and ultimately allows each of us to be more fully human.

- Speak and write clear, idiomatic English.
- Engage in the writing process, from pre-writing to editing and peer feedback to revision.
- Develop voice and depth in both personal and literary papers.
- Develop confidence, independence and critical judgment relative to one's own work.
- Understand as fully as possible what is read.
- Increase understanding of self and others through literature.
- Develop standards of judgment and taste in literature.
- Find enduring pleasure and value in reading good books.

ENGLISH I HONORS, FOUNDATIONS OF LITERATURE: COURSE #111

Course Frequency: Full-year course, five times per week

Credits Offered: Five

Prerequisites: Successful completion of 8th-grade English and teacher recommendation

Background to the Curriculum

This course continues to evolve from the original English I curriculum developed by teachers of the course in the summer of 1995.

Core Topics/Concepts/Skills

The underlying purpose of the ninth grade curriculum is to promote understanding of the "big questions" and the various ways peoples throughout the ages have answered them. A secondary purpose is that through this understanding students will come to value those universal ideals fundamental to civilization. To this end, the course is organized into four thematic units, each with theme-specific concepts: The Nature of the Universe/The Nature of Man, The Nature of Goodness/Virtue, The Nature of Love, and The Nature of Evil. There are two equally important strands in this curriculum, reading and writing. Through assignments in both, students will explore the four themes as expressed through literature and their own thinking on the concepts.

Through the study of Bible stories and myths, classics and contemporary works, students will gain an understanding of the following concepts.

Unit: The Nature of the Universe/The Nature of Man

- The nature of the hero
- Lessons on suffering
- Image of the journey
- Self awareness and identity
- Duality of man and of the universe
- Laws of the natural world
- The individual in relation to family and society

Core works in this unit

- The Odyssey

Unit: The Nature of Goodness/Virtue

- The ambiguity of goodness
- Questions man might consider to reach a judgment of goodness
- Ways of defining courage and justice
- The effects of prejudice
- Factors influencing ethical choices

Unit: The Nature of Love

- Varieties of love
- Reason vs. passion
- Altruism vs. self-interest
- The nature of friendship
- Loss of innocence
- Sacrifice

Unit: The Nature of Evil

- Knowledge of one's own capacity for evil
- Consequences of evil
- Manifestations of evil
- Sources of greed and jealousy
- Prejudice, indifference
- Appearance vs. reality

Core works in this unit

- To Kill a Mockingbird
- Old Man and the Sea
- Tale of Two Cities

- Of Mice and Men

Core works in this unit

- Romeo and Juliet

Core works in this unit

- A Separate Peace

The writing program includes personal, creative, and analytical writing.

Also important in this course is the development and refinement of language skills emphasized in previous grades:

- reading
- writing
- thinking
- speaking and listening
- vocabulary

Course-End Learning Objectives

Learning objectives

The Massachusetts Curriculum Framework for English Language Arts is comprised of twenty-seven General Standards organized into four Strands: Language, Literature, Composition and Media. The Learning Objectives for this course are matched to the appropriate Framework Strand and Standard.

Reading and critical thinking skills are listed by increasing level of difficulty, moving from the concrete skills of observing and recalling to the more abstract skills of interpreting, synthesizing, analyzing and evaluating. It is the goal of the English Department to move each student toward mastery of advanced skills.

- 1] Understanding of plot, characters, and setting
- 2] Literal interpretations of events
- 3] Understanding of theme
- 4] Comparison and contrast of myths and narratives from different cultures and geographic regions
- 5] Understanding of characteristics of different genres
- 6] Understanding of structure
- 7] Observation of connections and patterns
- 8] Observation of recurring character traits
- 9] Observation of similarities and differences among characters
- 10] Making of inferences about plot events, character, and theme
- 11] Interpretation of character
- 12] Interpretation of symbolism
- 13] Synthesis of concepts and patterns
- 14] Observation and understanding of cultural values
- 15] Analysis of the ways that style impacts theme and mood
- 16] Evaluation of patterns in themes and style in different works

In addition to the above general reading skills, students will understand: historical setting and culture, the way each work reflects the unit theme, and the sources of literary allusions.
